Activity

1. Start with a reminder of the work on being a parent and carer so far – about what babies and children need as they grow (child development) and also about how to give babies the best start in life. Explain that this session is about what kind of parent/carer young people want to be and also about acknowledging challenging aspects of parenting and the things that parents can worry about.
2. Being a parent/carer. Share the slide and the prop/statements. Ask the young people to work in pairs or 3s and to take each statement and decide if they Agree/Disagree/Don't know. After some discussion get feedback and discuss.

Being a parent or carer. Do you agree, disagree or 'don't know' when it comes to these statements:

1. Being a parent is easy.
2. Having a baby makes a relationship stronger.
3. Mothers are more important to young babies than fathers.
4. Parents are a child's most important role model.
5. Parenting comes naturally to everyone.
6. Being a parent would be fun.
7. It would be tough being a teenage parent.

3. If I was a parent. Ask the young people to continue to work in their small groups of 3. Give them the prompt statement If I was a parent I would want to... and the 11 statements on cards. Explain that all of these things a parent/carer can do are important, ask them to discuss each and as a group select 5 attributes of a parent they would say are those they want to aspire to most. Explain that you will ask small groups to feedback what they have chosen and why. Look for similarities and differences, while all are important, acknowledge why different choices have been made. In conversation explore where groups had disagreements or debate.

If I was a parent I would want to:

1. Make sure my child helps out doing chores at home.
2. Teach my child how to get on with other people.
3. Expect and encourage my child to do their best and help them to do their best.
4. Get on with my child's other parent or carers – avoid arguments at home.
5. Play and read together.
6. Make sure my child knows I love them.
7. Be a good role model.
8. Be patient and not get stressed.
9. Spend time with my child.
10. Trust my child.
11. Have clear rules.

4. What would you worry about if you were a parent? Either pose the question for a whole class discussion or have young people consider this as a small group and feedback views. After some time, share the slide about parents top 10 worries – explore similarities and differences. (Research conducted by the company that make Rescue Remedy)

Research found that the top 10 worries parents have are:

1. Being able to afford what their child needs
2. Dealing with a lack of sleep
3. Having enough patience
4. Encouraging the child to eat their meals
5. Dealing with an ill child
6. Keeping on top of household chores
7. Encouraging children to do their homework
8. Encouraging children to work hard at school
9. Coping with a child having a tantrum
10. Getting children up in the morning

5. Online worries: The Webwise 2017 Parent Survey. Acknowledge that a worry for parents of older children is them being online. Do their parents worry about them being online? Share the Webwise 2017 infographic/hand-out. What do young people think of these findings? Do they think that parents/carers are right to worry about these things? Are their strategies good enough?
6. End with a review of learning over the past 3 sessions – the young people have been learning about child development (and what children need as they grow). They have also been considering themselves as parents/carers – acknowledging that it's a challenging role to play. Ask one more question: Who is looking forward to being a parent? Take a show of hands and end with any positive comments any contributors want to make about what they are looking forward to.
