

1. Tomatoes are a fruit

2. Dogs sweat through their tongue

3. Bats are blind

4. If you cut an earthworm in half, it will regenerate and become 2 worms.

5. Goldfish have a 3 second memory

6. You should drink 8 glasses of water every day.

7. If you swallow chewing gum it will stay in your stomach for 7 years.

8. The inventor of the toilet was called Thomas Crapper.

9. Planet Earth is round.

10. Finger nails and hair keep growing after you die.

11. $1 + 1 = 2$

12. It's dangerous to wake someone up if they are sleepwalking.

3.11 Prop 1: Teacher Response Sheet

1. Truth. This is because it contains the ovary and the seeds of a flowering plant.

2. Myth. Panting is not the same as sweating. Most of their sweat glands are in their footpads. (But panting does keep them cool)

3. Myth. They can't see in colour but at night they can see better than we do.

4. Myth. The front end will live but the back end will die.

5. Myth. Actually, they have a good memory. You can train a goldfish to respond to different light or music.

6. Myth. It's probably good advice though.

7. Myth. It might not digest well but it will just come out in your poo – probably looking the same as when it went in.

8. Myth. But he is real and he did help make toilets better with inventions like flushing!

9. Truth. Well, it's an oblate spheroid – it's definitely not flat.

10. Myth. It just doesn't.

11. Truth. No question.

12. Myth. Sleepwalking is dangerous. Wake them up!