

Title: Consent and the Law (V4)

Level: SENIOR

Code: S.2

Links to Curriculum for Excellence

In terms of Curriculum for Excellence this level is concerned with extending or deepening what is described at Fourth Level.

Experiences and outcomes	Benchmarks
I recognise that power can exist within relationships and can be used positively as well as negatively. HWB 4-45a	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Distinguishes between a balance of power and abuse of power in relationships, for example, respect, trust, coercion, consent.

Learning intentions

- Young people know that that consent in the context of relationships is about communication and respect and means asking another person for permission to do something.
- Young people understand what the law says about sexual consent.
- Young people understand the pressures young people face to be in relationships including sexual relationships.

Success Criteria

- I can explain what consent in relationships means.
- I can explain what sexual consent is.
- I am building understanding, skills and capacity to assert myself in relationships so that I can express what I want and don't want.
- I know that I do not need to be in a relationship, and that relationships do not need to be sexual unless I wish them to be so.

NOTE: If the class/group has recently used the material at Senior Level called Make it Good they will have done work on relationships already and the final session in that group of activities deals with sex and consent. This session (which goes into the detail of consent) is best used at a different time in the year or different academic year.

Resources to support this activity

- PowerPoint slides (teacher/educator to insert a final slide with local service information)
- Film: Screwball (duration 12 minutes 22 seconds) <https://www.truetube.co.uk/film/screwball>
Produced by TrueTube, a multi award-winning website for schools
- Film: How do you know if someone wants to have sex with you? (3 minutes 50 seconds) <https://youtu.be/qNN3nAevQKY>
- 10 facts about consent (on cards for group discussion)
- No consent = No Fairy Tale (1 minute 10) <https://youtu.be/QJTqpydWFNA>

Activity

1. Introduce the session along these lines: That today the class/group will be looking at consent, particularly what consent means when people have sex. Emphasise that there is no assumption that young people are having sex, this is just about preparing for adult life, that young people can make their own good decisions about when sex is right for them.
2. To start, watch the film Screwball together – it is a comedy drama about Ryan and Natalie - two young people struggling through their first sexual encounter, and having to deal with each other's expectations. After watching get some initial feedback and thoughts.
Screwball (duration 12 minutes 22 seconds) <https://www.truetube.co.uk/film/screwball>
3. Being and feeling safe. Continue by explaining that as the young people will know, they have the right to be healthy, happy and safe in their relationships. Explain you want them to think especially about being safe. Ask them to work in a pair/3 with the prompt on the smartboard and the prop for recording:

If you are in a relationship you have the right to be healthy, happy and safe. But thinking about what it means to be SAFE in a relationship, what does this mean in practice? This means that....

Get feedback and explore similarities and differences between perspectives. Encourage discussion and questions. Refer back to Ryan and Natalie where helpful.

4. Share the series of 7 slides: In any relationship you should be and feel safe. Check understanding as you go, take any comments or questions. Explore: Have these points been reflected in young people's contributions so far?

In any relationship you should be and feel safe. This means that:

- You and your partner treat each other with respect.
- You care about each other.
- There is never any pressure put on you to do something that makes you feel uncomfortable, worried or scared, and you never put pressure on your partner to do something that makes them feel, uncomfortable, worried or scared.
- You never do anything sexual when you don't want to or make anyone else do something sexual when they don't want to.
- You never feel any pressure to take or send or look at images or messages that are nude or sexual, and you don't put pressure on someone else to do this.
- You don't have to spend time with your partner if you don't want to. You can keep your friends and see them when you want to.
- You have the right to break up with your partner if you want to.

5. Explain that a part of a being in a relationship (as the slides have just acknowledged) is that when you feel ready, you can choose to have sex. Pose the question: How do you know if someone wants to have sex with you? Ask the young people to work in their 2/3 again, they don't have to write anything down but see if they can come up with 5 ideas.

After a few minutes, ask for feedback (voluntary, don't go around the room). Write the feedback up as it is offered on the smartboard. From the feedback pick out anything that might be worth exploring a bit further, anything that you think would benefit from further clarification. For example, if someone offered 'You just know' ask 'So, give me some examples of how you would know...?' (pose such clarification questions to everyone, not just the person who offered the idea). Explain that you are doing this just to be really clear about what we might mean.

6. Introduce and watch the short film How do you know if someone wants to have sex with you? (3 minutes 50 seconds) <https://youtu.be/qNN3nAevQKY> take any first thoughts, feedback. (This film is also part of the S1 Make it Good material)
7. 10 facts about consent. Explain that you have some information about sex and consent for the young people to consider. This first slide is also clear about what 'having sex' might entail. Share the slide:

If you are doing anything sexual with another person, then you must be sure they are happy and freely agreeing to the sexual activity. This is called giving consent.

Sexual activity includes kissing and hugging, touching each other's bodies including genitals (your private parts) and penetrative sex, this is when a person puts their fingers or penis or something else into a person's mouth, vagina or anus (bottom).

8. Deal with any immediate questions, then explain that there are 10 things to remember about consent and they are on the cards (see prop provided) you are giving to the young people (in 2s or 3s) ask them to work their way through the cards and sort them into categories 2 categories: GET IT/UNDERSTOOD or NOT SURE/WE HAVE QUESTIONS. Stress that it is okay to be not sure or have questions. After some time, follow up with some discussion around the groups about the 10 facts cards – What's well understood? Is anything new? Does anything need clarified?
9. This short animation (1 minute 10 seconds) from Amnesty International is funny and very to the point – No consent = No Fairy Tale <https://youtu.be/QJTqpydWFNA>
10. End with thanks for all contributions. Remind young people that you are available to them if they have any questions or worries. Also remind young people (use the final slide with info inserted) of their nearest young people's confidential sexual health/health or support services. Add finally that young people their age still use ChildLine because it offers a great confidential service and someone to talk to.

Additional ideas/activities:

Young people may know these films, they are good and can be used in this or later sessions to touch base with key messages about consent. The first uses the metaphor of sexual consent and offering a cup of tea.

Connecting with home

The text below could be used to communicate with home about this activity.

As part of our learning this term about relationships we are discussing what we mean by consent. In particular the young people are thinking about what consent means when it comes to sex. There is no assumption that young people are having sex, this is just about preparing for adult life, so that young people can make their own good decisions about when sex is right for them.

These short films will be used, they capture the key messages in our learning activity.
